Re: Implementation of the Federal Communications Commission's Triennial Review Order (Nine-month Proceeding) (Hot Cuts)
Docket No. 03-00526

Dear Chairman Tate:

Enclosed are fifteen copies of errata to BellSouth's testimony in this matter:

Ronald Pate
Al Varner

Direct
Direct

Mr. Pate has an errata sheet and a redlined replacement page for his testimony.
Mr. Varner has an errata sheet only for Exhibit AJV-2, as the layout of the exhibit does not lend itself to redlining.

Copies of the enclosed are being provided to counsel of record.

Very truly yours,

A large, stylized handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to be "Guy M. Hicks".

Rebuttal Testimony of Ronald M Pate should read: "was determined that the vast majority, 2,160 LSRs or 95%, fell out due to pending"

1 with LNP Data reflects a 99.1% flow-through rate for those LSRs for both months, and
2 this rate greatly contributed to an improvement in the overall LNP flow-through rate.
3 This CLEC's submissions accounted for approximately 45% of all electronic LNP
4 submissions in December and 31% for January. As a consequence of this CLEC's
5 results, the overall LNP flow-through rate was 93.4% for December and 93 3% for 6 January.

8 Now, I do note that a portion of the electronic LSR submissions did fall out by design for 9 manual processing During these two months, a total of 2,267 of the submissions fell out
10 by design for manual processing by BellSouth's center personnel. What is interesting is 11 why these LSRs fell out by design. From an analysis of the 2,267 LSRs that fell out, it
12 was determined that the vast majority, 2,160 LSRs or 985%, fell out due to pending
13 service orders In other words, this CLEC had pending service orders in process for its 14 own accounts that had not cleared before the CLEC submitted LSRs to migrate the 15 accounts to UNE-L. If the CLEC only had checked its systems for pending service
16 orders, which it should do in the normal course of its operations, these migration requests
17 likely would have flowed through BellSouth's systems as well.
